ABOUT ME

My teaching journey began in the fourth grade with Mrs. Fowler's inspiration. I entered a classroom at fourteen to teach Sunday School and never looked back. The story has never been stagnant though. Since completing my Bachelor's and Master's in Education focused on reading and instructional methods, the Lord has continually crafted my grand adventure. From working in full time ministry with youth and college students, to teaching elementary public school, to owning a special education advocacy firm, to homeschooling my two for 14 years and leading a large homeschooling organization expansion, to being a mom, I have walked out my call as a teacher. God has measured my footsteps and equipped me over and over again to build the next facet of each step.

I have been married for twenty-nine years to Randy. We have two children, Josh and Rebekah, one daughter-in-law, Hannah, and a new grandbaby, Kate. As a family that has moved around the country for my husband's job, I have seen the world through my family's travels helping me add another layer as a travel concierge since moving to Tennessee, but nothing could keep me away from the passion for facilitating discipleship through academics.

Joining the CCA Family is a prayer answered. There is no great joy than to walk with students as they find the Truth of Jesus in and through academics.
